Will Rogers' $5,000
An Old Engineer
Our Money in Europe
Maine Votes Today

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

Will Rogers, publicist, actor, cowboy and philosopher, the flying problem is settled. Today, for instance, he starts from Beverly Hills in California by air to New York City and in today or two he will fly back again.

A few days ago Mr. Rogers offered to bet one of his old friends $5,000 that President Coolidge will run for president in 1928 regardless of his "I do not choose" statement. Mr. Rogers realizes now that his friend could not properly see and take Mr. Rogers' $5,000 on a certainty, so the bet is off and Rogers is happy.

PERRY THOMAS, one of the oldest, most trustworthy engineers on the New York Central, was soon to retire—a year or so as he had saved a little more money. Before the day came a head-on collision ended his life, and as he lay suffering in the hospital the old engineer, anxious to free everybody else from blame, told witnesses the accident was his fault. He had run by a block signal in the fog.

THIS reminds the public how much it depends on the railroad engineers. They should be better paid than they are now. And they might well be retired on full pay without waiting until age dims their sight and dulls their nerves. The public would be willing to pay for it.

SENATOR GLASS, of Virginia, says President Coolidge has no right to control, approve or disapprove American loans abroad by private financial concerns.

But suppose Europe borrows to build up fighting machinery that might be sent against this country, would that make any difference to Senator Glass?

• • •

AND suppose bankers encourage Americans to invest money in European bonds drawing usurious rates of interest, that may be repudiated later on, would that make a difference?

• • •

THE state of Maine today makes up its mind about retaining the direct primary or going back to the old plan of letting the bosses select both sets of candidates, saying to voters: "You must take one of these sets and either will suit me and the big fellows that like me."

• • •

UNDER the boss convention system intelligent organized finance gets the candidates it wants for a reasonable price from the bosses. Under the primary system the big fellows must buy their nominations at great expense, spending millions, as in Pennsylvania and elsewhere recently. The boss convention system is cheaper for the big fellows. Therefore it will probably come back.

WHAT a surprise to childish Wall Street financiers who bought Kerensky bonds—when a child might have known better—if Russia should work out a government made the safest in the world by doing the most good for the greatest possible number of those governed!

The thing is not impossible. There is no other nation that takes seriously the rights and needs of the masses, except when forced to do so by strikes or other violence, disturbing to the "better classes."

We do fairly well in America by enabling the little man to have his automobile, radio and saving bank account. But we DO NOT TAKE HIM SERIOUSLY.

DR. BARNES, British bishop of Birmingham entering the pulpit of St. Paul's Cathedral in London, was denounced by a fellow clergyman as a "false heretical teacher." Bishop Barnes accepts the plain truths of geology written in the rocks. God certainly wrote that story in the rocks, according to the bishop, whatever may be said about other writings.

• • •

THE bishop even accepts the theory of evolution with 95 per cent of other educated men in the world. Inge, dean of St. Paul's, even says that the attacks of inspiration to which St. Paul was subject were really epileptic attacks.

Those gentlemen would have been burned alive a few years ago, but that method of curing heresy has been abandoned for the present.

LENGEL TRIAL MOTION IS UNDER ADVISEMENT

Canton, Oct. 18—A motion asking a new trial for Saranus A. Lengel, former police chief, sentenced to a life term in the Ohio Penitentiary for complicity in the Don Mellett murder, today had been taken under advisement by the Mahoning Court of Appeals which heard the arguments yesterday.

The defense contended that there was no evidence warranting the verdict against Lengel, and that Judge Cleveringa erred in refusing to admit certain depositions into evidence and in his charge to the jury.

C., D. & M. PLANS TO ERECT NEW STATION HERE

Work To Start on Two-Story Fireproof Building in Two Weeks

TO RUSH CONSTRUCTION

Structure Will Be Built on W. Center-st Plot Near City Hall

Final arrangements have been made by the C., D. & M. Electric Co. for construction of a modern two-story fireproof building on W. Center-st for use as a passenger and freight station and work is expected to start in about two weeks, A. P. Van Deinse, president and general manager of the company, stated today.

Final plans for the building, which will measure 30 by 142 feet, are now being prepared by J. Lewis Ellis, local architect. The structure will be located on the north side of Center-st on land which the C., D. & M. purchased in 1920 as a permanent site for its Marion terminal tracks and station.

The ground, which has been used for pole storage since its purchase, has 138 feet frontage on Center-st, a short distance west of Canby-st, and extends back to the Erie railroad right-of-way a distance of 420 feet.

To Push Work

Construction of the new building will be pushed as rapidly as possible so that its completion will be assured before April 1, when the traction company's lease of its present station on N. State-st expires.

The N. State-st property is owned by Canby Lodge No. 51, Knights of Pythias and has been occupied by the C., D. & M. station for about 18 years. Officers of the lodge stated today that they have made no arrangements as yet for renting the building after the C., D. & M. moves to its new terminal quarters.

The building now being planned by the C., D. & M. is the first unit of a program of construction work proposed on its local terminal grounds.

The front of the structure will be 100 feet back from Center-st, leaving a plot of ground measuring 138 by 100 feet to be held in reserve as the location for an office building proposed for construction some time in the future.

Park Planned

The ground will be attractively maintained as park space with walks leading back to the station until the company is prepared to proceed with construction of the office building.

The passenger and freight station planned at this time for immediate construction will be of brick, steel and concrete, all two stories. At the front will be the passenger section, measuring 30 by 30 feet, containing a waiting room, ticket office, baggage checking room and ladies' toilet on the first floor, men's toilet in the basement and a trainmen's room, record room and division superintendent's office on the second floor.

The waiting room is to have attrac-

M'DONALD AGAIN OUT FOR MARSHALL BILL

State Prohibition Director Gives Three Reasons Why He Favors Adoption

Columbus, Oct. 18—E. F. McDonald, state prohibition director of Ohio, who had previously entered the political arena to take up the battle in behalf of the Marshall Bill by instructing employes of his department to campaign for the measure, today fired another broadside for the proposed law, which will be subjected to a referendum vote in November.

McDonald, in a statement made public through the Ohio Anti-Saloon League, declared that he favored adoption of the Marshall Bill for three reasons.

1. Because it will aid generally in law enforcement.

2. Because its adoption is "an absolute necessity to the enforcement of law in some Ohio counties."

3. Because the law "will not only be self-sustaining, but will be revenue producing."

ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATION IS OUTLINED BY COMMITTEE

Oscar Gast Elected Chairman of Group To Have Charge of Program

Preliminary plans for celebration of Armistice Day in Marion on Nov. 11 were outlined and Oscar Gast, deputy county auditor, was elected chairman of the general committee at a meeting held last night at Hotel Harding. The committee was appointed at last week's meeting of Bird-McGinnis Post, No. 162 of the American Legion.

The annual observance, according to arrangements mapped by the committee, will be a county-wide event, starting at 11 o'clock in the morning with a tribute to memory of the World War Veterans in which all citizens will be asked to participate.

Suspension of all business, including operation of factories, will be requested for a two-minute period beginning promptly at 11 o'clock, the hour when the armistice became effective and the great World War came to a close.

In many cities, this feature of the day's program will be made especially impressive, with all citizens, whether on the streets or at their places of employment, halting in their activities and facing the east during the two minutes of silent tribute, members of the local committee were informed at their meeting last night.

It was indicated that this feature will be at least partially worked out in the program here.

Street Parade

Included in the local observance will be a street parade in the afternoon with a historical pageant as one of the main divisions. The pageant will consist of floats entered by various schools of the city and county, depicting outstanding events in American history. Prizes will be offered for the floats which depict these incidents most effectively.

Officials of the schools, both public and parochial, have arranged to cooperate in making this part of the parade a success, it was announced.

In addition, local fraternities and patriotic bodies will be invited to participate in the parade, either by marching or entering floats.

Closing Event

George T. Geran has been appointed as grand marshal.

Three or four bands will furnish music for the parade, which is scheduled to start at 3 o'clock in the afternoon.

Definite plans for the closing event of the celebration at night have not been worked out. It will probably be a public entertainment, including an Armistic Day ball, discussion of plans at last night's meeting indicated. This part of the program will be in charge of the Womens' Auxiliary of the American Legion, officers of which expect to make arrangements at a special meeting this week. Mrs. George T. Geran and Mrs. Paul Knappenberger, who represented the auxiliary at the committee session last night, were appointed to present the matter to the auxiliary officers.

The Red Cross will have an important part in the day's observance, the plan being to introduce features advertising the annual Red Cross roll call, which is scheduled for the week of Armistice Day. Miss Mina Doughty, secretary of Marion County Chapter of the Red Cross was elected secretary of

30 Columbus Business Men Hosts to Local Industrial And Commercial Leaders

Members of Manufacturers and Wholesalers' Association of Capital Chamber of Commerce Pay "Good Will" Visit on Regular Monthly Trip

Marion and Columbus business men met here today in common forum, when 30 members of the Manufacturers and Wholesalers' Association of the Columbus Chamber of Commerce had as their guests 60 local business men at luncheon.

The men met in the ballroom of Hotel Harding at noon.

The Columbus business men's visit to Marion is one of a series of monthly trips which the Capital City workers make. These monthly trips are climaxed in the spring with a four-day tour. The trip here was made via the Columbus, Delaware and Marion Railway. From Marion the visitors went to Prospect and tonight were scheduled to meet Delaware business men.

Unity Needed, Claim

Citing the necessity of unity among business men, W. A. Keys, president of the association, declared the success of business and industry in all of our cities depends on every individual citizen. A man reap just as much benefit from luncheon clubs and chambers of commerce as he puts effort into them, he said. Keys cited the need of civic pride and pointed out the benefits Columbus is deriving from the keen co-operation of merchants and manufacturers.

An appeal to Marion business men to give Columbus concerns their business was prefaced with a request that they supply their own individual needs from their own Marion merchants.

List of Visitors

Among the Columbus men were: Harry Miller, Miller-Knopf Advertising Agency; B. W. Miller, Central Ohio Oil Co.; R. F. Davis, City National Bank of Commerce; Raymond P. Martin, Citizens' Trust & Savings Bank; George W. Crane, Crane Cigar Co.; A. G. Sharkey, R. G. Dun & Co.; Arthur E. Loeb, Erner & Hopkins Electric Co.

COMPLETE JURY FOR OIL TRIAL

Two Women and Ten Men Selected for Fall, Sinclair Case

Washington, Oct. 18—Two attractive young women and 10 men of mature age will determine the fate of former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall and Harry F. Sinclair, millionaire oil magnate, on trial here for criminal conspiracy to defraud the government of naval oil reserves.

After a day and a half of intensive examination of veniremen, 40 of whom were questioned, government and defense announced satisfaction and Owen J. Roberts, of federal counsel, launched into his opening address in which he outlined the nature of the government's case.

Courtroom Crowded

Full page picture displays and many columns of print in the local papers concerning the opening proceedings of the trial drew a capacity crowd to Justice Siddons' tiny courtroom today.

Fall appeared five minutes early, dispelling fears that a bad cough and cold might have kept him in bed. Last night it was reported he had run a temperature and was under a doctor's care. For some time, according to his lawyers, Fall has suffered from congestion of the right lung.

It was apparent there had been much overnight newspaper reading among the veniremen, for they were turning up fast and furious with "fixed opinions."

Today's proceedings will be all routine. After the jury has been finally picked, there will be a parade of witnesses from the government departments merely to identify a huge mass of letters, telegrams and manuscripts taken from federal files for introduction as evidence in the case.

Blackmer Called

The only high light of yesterday's proceedings was the government's call for H. M. Blackmer, former president of the Midwest Refining Co., who was subpenaed in Paris by the government. Blackmer, who is alleged to know much about the transactions wherein the government asserts Fall was bribed to turn over the Teapot Dome oil lease to Sinclair, together with James E. O'Neill, formerly with the Prairie Gas and Oil Co., went to Europe to avoid appearing in the oil trials. Following this action, the senate adopted a resolution compelling attendance of all witnesses called and making seizure of $100,000 worth of the witness' property, the penalty for non-appearance. Owen J. Roberts, special federal counsel, had Blackmer's name called merely to lay the foundation for such seizure. Former Gov. Nathan Miller of New York, who appeared for Blackmer, challenged the constitutionality of the senate's act and declared his client was beyond the pale of the American courts. O'Neill has never been served, although Roberts has reports he is in Cannes, France, and is frantically trying to get action out of the consular service to serve him.

A. W. TIBBALS IS SENTENCED TO PENITENTIARY

Given Five-Year Term When He Pleads Guilty to Embezzlement Charges

ADMITS FORGERIES

New Trial Plea of Howard A. Stevens To Be Considered Today

A. W. Tibbals, former local dealer in electrical supplies who was scheduled to go on trial today on an indictment charging him with forgery, changed his plea to guilty when the time came for his hearing this morning and was sentenced to five years in the penitentiary. The sentence was fixed by Judge Sevfield of the court of common pleas.

Tibbals will be taken to the state prison at Columbus Wednesday, according to present plans of Sheriff James A. Deal.

It was announced that Judge Sevfield would probably take action this afternoon on the motion for a new trial filed by Howard A. Stevens, local attorney who was found guilty on an embezzlement charge last week.

Indicted By Jury

Tibbals was indicted by the last grand jury for forgery on a note for $833 which he sold to the Advantage Loan & Discount Co. of this city. The note was signed "H. T. Williams," which Tibbals admitted was a forgery, officials state.

According to accounts of the case coming from authorities, this was one of about 30 forged notes totalling $11,000 which were sold here by Tibbals, who represented that they had been given to him in payment for electrical equipment. It was also alleged that he disposed of other bogus notes to a loan company in Lima.

Taken In July

Tibbals was arrested in July on an affidavit filed in Municipal Court by B. T. Wiant, secretary of the Advantage Loan & Discount Co. He has been held at the county jail since that time.

His trial was originally set for Tuesday of last week but a continuance was granted when he indicated that he might change his plea to guilty. Tibbals was represented by Francis Durbin, Lima attorney.

MINE BLAST DOES DAMAGE OF $35,000

Origin Undetermined, According to Word at Steubenville; No One Hurt

Steubenville, Oct. 18—A dynamite explosion of undetermined origin caused damage estimated at between $35,000 and $50,000 to a mine owned by the United States Coal Co. at Bradley, 18 miles south of this city, according to word reaching the sheriff's office here today.

The blast occurred late last night, but owing to telephone lines being down reports were delayed until this morning. No one was injured.

The mine had not been operating but several men had been working during the day, making preparations to resume mining.

Sheriff Allison and several deputies were on the scene shortly before noon today investigating.

CREW, PASSENGERS FIGHT SHIP FIRE

Blaze Rages for Two Days in Freight Hold of San Jacinto

Key West, Fla., Oct. 18—With both crew and passengers fighting a raging fire in her freight hold, the Mallory Line San Jacinto arrived in port here from Galveston today.

The fire was discovered Sunday morning, 12 hours after the liner had cleared the Texas port. Working in shifts, the crew and passengers have since battled the flames. Bad weather encountered Sunday night and heavy seas added to the plight of the ship.

With heavy black smoke pouring from her forward holds where a shipment of cotton has been stored, there was no way today to ascertain to what extent the fire has made headway.

Perfect order was maintained by the passengers aboard ship, many of them joining with the crew in fighting the fire at sea.

NAVY BAND IN CITY FOR TWO CONCERTS

Organization Brought Here by Kadgar Grotto; Group Visits Cemetery

Following a reception by local officials and other prominent citizens and a parade at noon through streets brightly decorated with the American colors, the U. S. Navy Band this afternoon gave the first of two concerts scheduled today at the Chautauqua Pavilion.

The parade, which started shortly after 12 o'clock at the Masonic Temple, led to Marion Cemetery, where members of the band visited the temporary tomb of President and Mrs. Harding.

The stay at the tomb was brief but impressive, a reverent tribute to the memory of the former chief and executive and his wife, with whom the U. S. Navy band was a pronounced favorite.

The parade was headed by Kadgar Grotto band, followed by the Harding High School band, the navy musicians at the rear in automobiles.

The visiting band arrived this morning 30 [illegible] o'clock on the Pennsylvania railway from Bucyrus, where it appeared in concert yesterday. It was met by a reception committee consisting of local officials and other citizens, including members of Kadgar Grotto, the Masonic organization which is sponsoring today's concerts. The band was escorted to Hotel Marion to await the parade.

This afternoon's concert was featured by the presence of hundreds of school children, special arrangements having been made to entertain them as matinee guests.

Tonight's program will start at 8 o'clock at the Chautauqua pavilion.

SEWER ISSUE DEFEAT SEEN BY REALTORS

Board Says $800,000 Project Should Be Divided into Two Parts

PROCEDURE CRITICIZED

City Engineer Tom S. Cathers Defends Action Taken by Council

Two outstanding conclusions reached by members of the Marion Real Estate Board who met with City Engineer Tom Cathers at city hall last night were, first, that the $800,000 sewer bond issue to be presented to the voters next month, was doomed to defeat and that the proposed two trunk-line storm water sewers should be divided into two projects to be built at two different times.

The meeting, held in the council chamber at the city hall, was attended by nine members of the real estate board and by George Whysall, general manager of the Marion Water Co.

It was the opinion of members of the board that in presenting the proposition to the voters, someone had gotten the cart before the horse. Instead of preparing plans and obtaining all the data possible on the proposed sewers, to be used in an educational campaign and then presenting the matter to the people, an effort, realtors charged, is being made to get the money first and then prepare the plans.

Position Defended

Position of the city in this matter was defended by City Engineer Cathers who pointed out that it was necessary to obtain money from the issue of bonds, in order to pay for the survey and preparing the plans. That there is no other money available for the purpose was pointed out by Cathers. Several members of the board, however, were of the opinion that even though the bond issue did carry, none of the money could be used for any other purpose except actual building of the sewers, and the city would be no better off, so far as having money to conduct a survey and make plans.

Members of the board expressed the belief that the bond issue will be defeated at the coming election for two reasons, first, that the voters do not know enough what the money is to be used for and second that, in the face of conditions in general the average property owner is not going to vote for any measure that might mean an increase in taxes, even though the increase might be small.

No Definite Routes

While no definite routes over which the two storm water sewers would travel, were presented, it was an accepted fact that one would be for the purpose of draining the east half of the city emptying into Ququa Ditch and the other would drain the west half of the city emptying into the Columbia-st sewer.

With the sewer draining the east half of the city into Ququa Ditch, relieving the West Side sewer system of a large part of the volume of water which it is now forced to carry, it was the opinion of the members of the board that the building of the East Side sewer might for the present at least, partially solve the problem, with the expenditure only about half of the amount provided for the entire system.

While the city engineer refused to commit himself as to the feasibility of the plan, he said it might work very satisfactorily and when questioned by members of the board as to the cost, said he thought it would cost between $600,000 and $650,000. These figures, he said, were based on the total cost of the two trunk lines.

Bids Vary

In view of the fact that bids offered by contractors for the building of the trunk-line sanitary sewer varied as much as $150,000, it is no easy matter to give figures that can be regarded as accurate, the city engineer said. The depth of the sewer and the amount of rock would play a big part in the cost, he pointed out.

That the passing of an $800,000 bond issue for sewers, even though the election was preceded by an educational campaign, would be extremely difficult if not impossible, was the general opinion of the board and it was the belief that for this reason, it would be better to build the system in two units and at different times.

Favor East Side Work

And since the building of the East Side system might eliminate much of the trouble from flooded basements and streets, experienced by those living on the West Side, by relieving the West Side sewers of a great volume of water, it was the general opinion that it would be best to build the East Side sewer first.

The plan as discussed at the meeting last night, also included the cleaning out of Ququa Ditch. Should this be done, it was pointed out by the engineer, an ample outlet for any amount of storm water would be available. The ditch, he said, has been cleaned out by the county from a point 1½ miles south of this city to within three quarters of a mile from the corporation line.

The Grebe Synchrophase Seven

Is the latest development of the Grebe Company which has successfully met all of the changing requirements of radio reception since the early days of wireless.

There is nothing left to be desired in the Synchrophase Seven, for it accurately takes in the entire broadcasting range. With ample leeway to separate one station from another and a broad tuning radius providing margin to spare, below and above the broadcasting band.

True, natural reception, volume, selectivity and durability combined with rare beauty qualify the Synchrophase Seven as the greatest achievement of Grebe.

And the Grebe reputation over a period of eighteen years should place the Synchrophase Seven in a class of superiority over all that is available in radio receivers. Sold by

REMUS COUNSEL TO TAKE DEPOSITIONS

Attorney Says He'll Prove Client Insane at Time of Shooting

Cincinnati, Oct. 18—Representatives of George Remus, bootlegger, facing trial for the slaying of Imogene Holmes Remus, his wife, today were ready to start out on a tour of the country for fragments of the story of Remus' wrongs at the hands of Imogene Remus and Franklin L. Dodge, department of justice agent.

It is this story, to be pieced together from depositions of 89 witnesses, that Charles H. Elston, Remus' attorney, says will prove the defense contention that Remus was crazed by the persecutions of his wife and her alleged lover when he fired the fatal shots.

Judge Chester R. Shook of the Hamilton County Criminal Court, yesterday ruled that under the new Ohio insanity law Elston would have to present that contention today, and abide at the murder trial by the finding of a sanity hearing to be held Oct. 31.

Elston pleaded that the insanity defense could be introduced at any time it was pertinent to the defense from [illegible]

Washington, Oct. 18—An official denial that Princess Ileana of Rumania had eloped with a young naval officer has been issued by George Creticanu, minister of Rumania.

"Princess Ileana is staying with her mother, whose constant companion she has been since the death of King Ferdinand and has left Rumania since her return from her trip to the United States last fall," Creticanu declared.

M'Bride Determined To Carry Out Plan Advocated by Wheeler Before Death

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Star Correspondent

WASHINGTON, Oct. 18—After all, what difference does it make whether our next president is a dry or a wet? The country's dry by constitutional act by an overwhelming majority. The president's every duty is to uphold the constitution and enforce the laws, whatever his personal views may be.

DR. FRANCIS SCOTT MCBRIDE

You hear that proposition stated quite frequently.

But a good many people still think it does make a decided difference whether the next president is wet or dry.

Why?

PROBABLY the best answer to our question is to be found in the case of Anti-Saloon League workers in Washington, who certainly can be accepted as representative drys.

Before his death, Wayne B. Wheeler had outlined for the league plans intended to guarantee a honest dry president for the 1929-33 term. He evidently thought it mattered. F. Scott McBride, Dr. Wheeler's successor, at least "pro tem," is overlooking no bets to see that the Wheeler program is carried out to the last detail. He thinks it matters, too.

Having found out how the drys feel about it, we can easily determine how the wets must feel, by simply turning the drys' reasoning exactly around.

SUPPOSE we do have a president, who, though wet in his individual sympathies, nevertheless means to enforce the law. He may go through the motions, but it isn't to be expected that he'll have much heart in them.

His secretary of the treasury, at the head of all federal enforcement machinery, and his attorney general, in charge of all prosecutions under the prohibition act, presumably will be officials like their chief. Besides, as we proceed downward from the White House, in the direction of the departments, we shall find that a little additional enthusiasm has oozed out.

Treasury and justice departmental underlings—assistants, field agents, district attorneys, marshals and the like—will sense their superiors' indifference and their activities will be perfunctory at best—not to mention out-and-out "Black sheep."

• • •

ALL these officials are presidential appointees.

So are the federal judges of the district and circuit courts, of whom many, out of considerably more than 100 on the bench, are named by every president.

A magistrate who regards violations of a certain law with a lenient eye is unlikely to deal out severe sentences under it, in the drys' estimation, and doubtless without conscious bias, he can readily construe the rules of evidence so as to make conviction more or less difficult.

• • •

IN all probability, too, the next president will have several appointments to make to the federal supreme court.

We touch now on a very sensitive dry spot.

The supreme court interprets the law and its interpretations are almost as important as the law itself.

The present supreme justices' rulings have been, in the main, exhilaratingly dry, but, of the present nine justices, not one but will be more than 60 years old before the next presidential term ends. Six will be more than 70, three will be more than 75, and Justice Holmes, if he lives, will be past 90.

It's quite possible the drys note, that the next president will put a majority of his own selection on the federal supreme bench.

• • •

THE drys don't assert that a wet president's election would mean an immediately wet country. They do believe four years of him would gravely undermine the dry law's enforcement, if not the law itself.

Put this argument in reverse, and you have the wets.

NERVOUSNESS KEPT THIS LADY A HEALTH-WRECK

Stomach Indigestion Miserable; Says Konjola Gave Her Amazing Relief.

"Oftimes, nervousness and stomach troubles go hand in hand," said The Konjola Man yesterday at the Stump & Sams Pharmacy, 121 South Main Street, Marion, where crowds of men and women are now calling daily to find out about this celebrated Konjola medicine.

MRS. E. E. LANDON

"The nervous person may not be aware of stomach trouble, but very often the stomach is disordered, and at times it is the real seat of this terrible nervousness," continued the Konjola Man. "A nervous person wakes in the morning tired and exhausted. As the day advances his strength increases and at bedtime the sufferer is usually at his best, while some persons are just a bundle of nerves all the time—the least excitement nearly drives them frantic. As a rule, constipation, headaches, melancholia, or blues, are very common; and the sufferer seems to look only on the dark side of life—these things make nervousness a dreaded ailment."

This Konjola, which The Konjola Man is introducing in Marion, has given such amazing relief in so many cases of nervous indigestion and stomach troubles, that it is declared that no suffering person can afford not to try it. Many people say Konjola seems to go at once to the very source of such misery. For instance, just a few days ago, Mrs. E. E. Landon, living on East Street, Prospect, Ohio (near Marion), made the following statement in which she told of the relief she derived by taking Konjola:

"I just feel fine now, and I think Konjola is wonderful," said Mrs. Landon. "I suffered terribly with nervousness and stomach trouble. In fact, it made little difference what I ate. I was sure to be in agony from indigestion. I would bloat up with gas, and it was almost impossible for me to sleep at nights, due to shattered nerves. I used to feel pretty bad every morning, but now, your Konjola has benefited me so much that every morning I feel fit and fine. This is because I sleep so well. And with my nervousness and indigestion gone, I just feel like I have a new hold on life. As I said, I think Konjola is wonderful, and I am glad to recommend it to help others afflicted like I was."

The Konjola Man, is at the Stump and Sams Pharmacy, 121 South Main Street, Marion, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Konjola is now being sold by all of the good druggists in every nearby town of this whole section.—Adv.

Take First Steps Monday on $350,000,000 Tax Cut Bill

FINANCE GROUP TO STUDY LAW

Revision of Administrative Features Will Be Considered by Committee

Washington, Oct. 18—The initial step toward a $350,000,000 tax reduction bill will be taken next Monday when the senate joint finance committee will meet to consider a revision of the administrative features of the law, it was learned today.

The committee, composed of senators and five representatives, will not touch upon tax rates but will confine their hearings to questions affecting the administration of the tax laws. The house ways and means committee, however, will convene a week later, Monday, Oct. 31—to begin consideration of lower tax rates.

The tax bill will be limited to a reduction of $350,000,000 if the house leaders have their way. This figure will be reduced, it was said, if new congress indicates in coming days a disposition toward larger appropriations for flood relief, for increased navy, a new building program and a new public works program.

Propose Tax Slash

A definite schedule of reduction, it is believed, will be featured by a proposal to slash the corporation tax from 13½ to 12 per cent, according to Senator Smoot, Republican, Utah, chairman of the senate finance committee. This reduction, Smoot said will "eliminate the greatest inequality in the present tax law, as congress gave to corporations the highest reduction received in the last tax bill.

Smoot also came out for repeal of the existing excise taxes, that group commonly called "nuisance taxes," he asserted, in particular, repeal of the automobile tax. Smoot likewise recommended repeal of the federal inheritance tax "because it is wrong in principle" but said this would be the last reduction sought.

Would Cut Red Tape

The administrative features of the tax law possible will be thoroughly explored by the joint committee with a view of eliminating considerable red tape from the process of collecting taxes. Much criticism has been aimed at the treasury department because of delay in approving tax returns and because of its action in frequently reopening tax cases several years after the cases have been paid. The committee will consider amendments to the law intended to provide for early settlement of all tax cases and for a definite limit upon the time in which cases can be reopened, except where fraud or collusion can be shown.

The joint committee comprises Senators Smoot, Republican, Watson, Republican, of Indiana, Reed, Republican of Pennsylvania; Simmons, Democrat, of North Carolina, and Jones, Democrat of New Mexico, and Representatives Green, Republican, of Iowa; Treadway, Republican, of Massachusetts; Hawley, Republican, of Oregon; Garner, Democrat, of Texas, and Collier, Democrat, of Mississippi. Green is chairman.

tive terrazzo flooring and up-to-date furnishings.

The entire building is to be heated by steam, a heating plant being planned of sufficient capacity for not only the original structure but for all future additions.

Freight Depot

The freight depot will extend to the rear, measuring 30 by 166 feet.

Both passenger and freight stations are to be provided with all modern advantages for efficient handling of the company's business and for the comfort and convenience of its patrons.

Cars will enter the terminal on tracks to be constructed along the west side of the station. Driveways for trucks and other conveyances will be at the east, where ample space will be provided for loading merchandise A specially designed platform will be constructed with openings arranged at an angle so that a large number of trucks may be loaded or unloaded at one time.

Announcement that the C., D. & M. is ready to start on its terminal project is regarded as one of the most important commercial developments here in recent years. Coming in connection with proposed plans for construction of a new theater building near the terminal site and also while arrangements are under way for widening and resurfacing of W. Center-st next year, it is looked upon as an indication that the coming year will be one of unusual progress on the city's most important thoroughfare.

To Extend Tracks

Plans for the C., D. & M. terminal also include proposed extension of the company's tracks along the north side of its W. Center-st land. This can not be accomplished, however, until the city arranges for extending Mill-st west from Campbell-st. This extension of Mill-st is strongly advocated and is regarded as a likely development within the next few years.

No general contract will be let for construction of the freight and passenger station, the plan being to have the work done under direct supervision of C., D. & M. officials, it was stated today.

Plans of the Columbus, Marion & Bucyrus Railway Co. regarding location of its station after transfer of the C., D. & M. terminal to W. Center-st have not been decided, George H. Whysall, president of the C., M. & B., stated today.

The C., M. & B. now uses the C., D. & M. station on N. State-st as its local terminal and ticket office under contract entered into by the two companies. The same contract also grants the C., M. & B. use of the N. State-st car line between the station and Fairground-st.

ARMISTICE DAY

the Armistice Day committee at last night's meeting.

Special Ceremonies

Special ceremonies will take place at the Central High School grounds as a formal opening of the day's program. Promptly at 11 o'clock, the hour of the Armistice, a military detachment is to fire a volley of eleven shots and this will be followed by devotional services and a brief talk by some member of the Legion on the significance of Armistice Day.

Paul Knappenberger has been appointed to arrange for this feature of the program.

Legion Posts of Caledonia, LaRue and Prospect will assist Bird-McGinnis Post of this city in making the observance an event in which citizens from all parts of the county will be represented. Oscar Gast, chairman of the general committee on arrangements, is a member of the Prospect Post.

Banks To Close

Although Armistice Day was officially designated as a legal holiday in Ohio by act of the last legislature, merchants of the city will not be requested to close their stores during the day, according to present plans. It is expected, however, that business will be suspended during the time of the parade. All banks and public offices will be closed throughout the day.

J. W. Llewellyn, who was chairman of the committee in charge of last year's unusually successful celebration, has been named as head of this year's finance committee.

Special committees to arrange various details of the celebration will be appointed by Chairman Gast within the next few days, he stated following last night's meeting.

One of the most important of these committees will be the one assigned to arranging the historical pageant in which the schools are to participate. It is expected that practically every school in the county will be represented.

List of Committees

The meeting last night was attended by 12 members of the committee and L. Don Jones, commander of Bird-McGinnis Post, who appointed the committee last week.

The committee consist of George T. Geran, Dr. C. J. Altmaier, Oscar Gast, Clifford L. Gorton, J. W. Llewellyn, Loring K. Warner, Jesse M. Kleinmaier, Harley F. Lewis, Wallace W. Thompson, Charles B. Lehmer, Otis Harraman, L. W. Barrett and Paul Knappenberger, representing the American Legion; Mrs. Mayme Herr Frank, Mrs. George T. Geran, Mrs. Paul Knappenberger and Mrs. Fred Berg, of the Legion Auxiliary; J. F. Prendergast and Miss Mina Doughty, Marion County Chapter of the Red Cross; Mayor Earl M. Huzen, Municipal Judge W. R. LIVESTOCK BODY TO INCREASE MARKETING

Marion County Co-Operative Association Lays Plans for Launching Drive

Directors of the Marion County Livestock Co-operative Association met last night and approved plans for an intensive campaign to improve service and increase volume of co-operative livestock marketing in this county. Preliminary work on the campaign starts today according to Roland L. Leeper, manager of the association.

Before staring on the campaign work officials of the local association will investigate present marketing facilities here.

The campaign in this county will be carried on simultaneously with campaigns in about 10 other counties of the state. The campaign itself is intended to better acquaint livestock producers of the county and state with the possibilities and service available in co-operative marketing, according to officials of the local association.

"Only a small portion of our livestock producers realize the completeness of the co-operative machinery that has been built by farmers themselves in eight years effort," Manager Leeper said this morning. "It is now possible to obtain stock direct from the western range through a feeder system built up by members of co-operative association," Leeper pointed out.

Directors who attended the meeting last night were: Ray Gatewood, Caledonia; F. D. Isler, Prospect; A. W. Augenstine, Waldo; Bernard Hatton, Columbus, field supervisor and Ronald L. Leeper, manager.

BIRTHS

Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Albert are the parents of a daughter, Reba Gene, born this morning at their home, 213 Wildwood-et.

CONDITION FAIRLY GOOD

The condition of Louis Glenson of Fountain-st, fireman at the Marion County Home, Claridon-pk, who shot himself in an attempt to end his life, at the rear of the home yesterday morning, is reported to be fairly good at City Hospital today. Despondency over ill health is believed by relatives to have prompted the suicide attempt.

STOLEN CAR WRECKED AND THEN RETURNED

When the family of George Uliac, 206 Wallace-st, returned early last night from a week-end vacation, they found that someone had broken into the garage and taken their Ford coupe.

An investigation, however, revealed the missing car parked at the rear of the garage with the front badly damaged. The matter was reported to the police who believe the car was taken by joy riders who collided with another machine.

Enters Plea of Guilty to Charge of Possessing Liquor Before Judge Martin

Tony Vitale, 55, pleaded guilty in municipal court, yesterday, to a charge of illegal possession of liquor and was fined $200 and costs. He was placed in the county jail in default of payment.

Vitale was arrested at his home on Cottage-st early Sunday morning by Sheriff James A. Peal and deputies, who report finding 40 gallons of bootleg liquor stored in an upstairs room. Vitale, they stated, had been drinking the beverage and was intoxicated when arrested.

He asserts that he is a victim of circumstances, alleging that the liquor was left in his home by an acquaintance who had disappeared and can not be located.

Last rites for Albert Osbun, whose death occurred last Thursday at his home in Green Camp, were conducted at the W. C. Boyd Funeral Home, S. Main-st, at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon with Rev. James Bolin in charge. Interment was in Pleasant Hill Cemetery.

TOURING CAR STOLEN FROM PARKING PLACE

The theft of his 1927 Oakland touring car from Church-st near Main was reported to the police by Lee Howison, 252 Fairground, shortly after 10 o'clock last night. Howison told the police he had parked the machine about 7:30 o'clock and when he returned at 10 o'clock the car had disappeared. The license number of the missing machine was 791-717 and the machine carried a Spanish war emblem.

Best Way to Loosen Stubborn Cough

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Cheap and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, breathing becomes easier, tickling in throat stops and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2½ ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified honey, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love it.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract and palatable guaiacol, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment, ask your druggist for "2½ ounces of Pinex" with directions. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

Less Shoplifting Now.

One day recently, fifty women ranging in age from eighteen to sixty-five appeared in a New York City court to answer to shoplifting charges. At first glance, it might be taken that shoplifting had become a regular occupation in New York City, the reader naturally figuring that, for the fifty apprehended, hundreds were able to escape detection. Possibly only a small ratio of those engaged in shoplifting at the time were caught, but it's just as possible that the half hundred taken represented a large proportion of those engaged in appropriating merchandise to themselves, for the most of the shoplifting is done in large establishments, and the big stores of New York are exceptionally keen in guarding against such stealing, possibly better equipped to defeat it than any other establishments in the land.

But after all, fifty shoplifting cases in New York is not so surprising, considering the population of the metropolis. It's very probable that the percentage of shoplifting there is lower than in many other cities, even in smaller cities the size of Marion, for it's an annoyance, as well as a source of loss, to merchants throughout the entire country.

The most heartening feature in connection with shoplifting is that it is less common than it used to be. For some reason, as yet unexplained, shoplifting has decreased in about the same proportion as store hold-ups have increased in number. Possibly since hold-ups have become so much more common, those inclined to pick up and carry away goods figure that merchantile establishments are exercising far more care and watchfulness than ever before, which view is not without foundation in fact. Possibly it is because, of late, shoplifters have been drawing stiffer sentences.

No matter what the cause, it's a matter for congratulation that this offense—or crime, whichever it may prove to be—against mercantile houses is in recession.

An Expert Scores Bulb Embargo.

Returning from Europe, recently, Dr. Arthur D. Houghton, of Los Angeles, a fellow of the Royal Horticultural society and a well-known developer of new plant species, boldly charges that the United States embargo against flower bulbs grown in Europe is "continued largely because its repeal would mean the loss of hordes of political jobs."

Dr. Houghton went to Paris to attend the American Legion convention and later visited the principal bulb-producing centers in search of new species. He says the American "stifling" of the bulb industry in France is partly responsible for the present French tariff reprisals, as hundreds of thousands of rural residents over there are dependent on the flower industry for a livelihood.

"While I fully realize the importance of preventing the spread of plant infection," Dr. Houghton told the New York City newspapers, "I believe that there would be no particular harm at this time if all the interstate and international horticultural regulations were abolished. This 'plantophobia' is largely propaganda for purposes of continuing the thousands of plant inspectors in their jobs. In the earlier days of plant culture the whole world was ransacked for novel species without harm and modern scientific breeders know enough of sterilization methods to protect the industry now without laws that stifle science and business.

"With more than 5,000 miles of unprotected border lines between America and Canada on the north and Mexico on the south there is really no way to prevent the lower forms of life that infest plant from spreading, anyhow. These parasites will crawl across the borders along the ground and fly over in the air and laws will not stop them. But the federal quarantine keeps a horde of inspectors on the nation's payrolls to do purely destructive work. Examination and sterilization of the bulbs at their source would solve the problem just as it has solved the immigration health problem."

As conditions are now, Dr. Houghton said, scientific breeders were allowed to import a few bulbs on special permits, but these often had to be quarantined at the department of agriculture greenhouses in Washington for long periods under conditions often unsuited to the particular plants, which may have come from climates which the government has not the facilities to duplicate. Thus, when the experimenter finally gets his bulbs the plants are frequently in so sickly a condition that they are useless for his purposes. He also said that the government specified particular brokers which the importers had to deal with.

Dr. Houghton said that a heavy tax on bulb imports to support the expense of a government supervisory department would mean nothing to the plant importers, who would gladly be willing to pay heavily for the privilege of importing bulbs in large quantities.

Were this California plant developer alone in the position he has taken regarding the danger of infection from the importation of foreign bulbs—or absence of danger, it may be better to say—we might assume that experience has taught the great majority of plant growers the contrary, but there have been not a few expressions preceding his along the same line. If our memory serves us correctly, we have heard a reflex of it here in Marion. But no matter what may be the mass conviction concerning this phase of his statement, there is liable to be rather general concurrence in his charge that the inspection business is overdone, not only in this particular line, but also in others. The country is being inspected, if not to death, at least to the great burden of the people. These hordes of inspectors turned loose upon the public are costing it enormous sums. Evidence of this may be had in the recent $10,000,000 corn borer inspection, which we are now told did not and will not overcome the pest, but will keep it in subjection, and it has been intimated that it is to be continued indefinitely.

Can it be, as Dr. Houghton charges, that much of such inspection as is being done is largely unnecessary and is chiefly to maintain hordes of political job-holders?

Senator Arthur Capper predicts a plank in the national Republican platform demanding the enforcement of prohibition. Well, why not? Isn't it the law of the land?

At the hearing of President Charles Smith, of the American Association for the Advancement of Atheism, the Rev. John Alexander Dowie started his downfall.

"Pussyfoot" Johnson says England is having as much trouble with bootleggers as the United States, explaining that over there they are bootlegging it out and bringing it back again because of the fact that there is a very heavy tax on liquor for home consumption and the total absence of a tax on imported liquors. Even at that, Great Britain has a shade on us. The bootlegged liquor over there is the real stuff. One can drink it and survive, for a time, at least.

District Attorney Banton, of New York, opened his campaign against indecent stage performances with the announcement that actresses would be taken direct to the night court just as they appeared upon the stage, without being given opportunity to put on their clothes, if they persisted in exhibitions of nudity. Christian Rakovsky, the soviet Russian ambassador whose recall was forced by France and who has been driven out of more countries as an undesirable than most people have ever visited, left Paris stealthfully by automobile Sunday morning enroute to Berlin, such he believed to be the feeling against him, and the Paris papers are already referring to his successor, Dovgalesky, a former employe of the lighting plant in Bordeaux, as a thug and a murderer. To a man on the fence, it doesn't look as though the relations between France and Russia are as wholly pleasant as they might be.

Babies That Need the Bottle.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

One of the question which comes up in every family where there is a tiny baby is the matter of feeding. Shall it be breast-fed exclusively, or bottle-fed exclusively? Or shall there be a mixture of the two?

Let it be understood that no greater blessing can come to an infant than to be breast-fed. Under no circumstances should the breast be discontinued unless there are unmistakable reasons for taking it away.

What are these reasons?

Of course the serious illness of the mother is an abundant reason. Suppose she is so unfortunate as to have Bright's disease, or tuberculosis? In that event it is absolutely necessary to stop feeding the baby by the breast.

It is probable that either of these diseases would be discovered before the baby is born. It is to be hoped so, because breast-feeding must not be practised in such a case.

It sometimes happens that a mother has never been able to bring up a baby on the breast. If this has happened with previously born babies, it will be better not to try it again. The bottle is likely to be better and safer.

Should the mother become pregnant before this baby has been weaned, it will be well to turn to the bottle. It is not fair to the mother, or to that other little soul on the way, to require the feeding of this infant.

There are other ailments which will make it necessary to resort to bottle-feeding. Anything which breaks down the mother's health or interferes with the making of good milk, is sufficient reason for taking away the breast.

All the things I have mentioned so far relate to the mother. Of course, there are symptoms suffered by the baby which lead to bottle feeding.

The surest test of an infant's welfare is its steady increase in weight. If this has been fairly satisfactory and then suddenly slows down, it raises the suspicion that something is wrong with the milk.

If there is no gain for some time, and particularly if there is a decrease in weight, you must give serious thought to the quantity and quality of the mother's milk. It will be necessary, in all probability, to give an occasional bottle, or to change to bottle feeding exclusively.

Many a poor baby suffers from vomiting or diarrhea. It begins to waste away if the trouble isn't overcome. It is likely that the breast-feeding will have to be given up and the bottle substituted.

I am telling you these things for your information. Now I want to say that your baby is too precious for any kind of home doctoring. If the child fails to prosper, your doctor's advice is needed. He will decide the question of feeding for you.

E. S. L. Q—What causes a sharp pain that shoots through the right side under the chest?

A—This is probably due to indigestion. Careful diet and elimination should help you to correct your digestion. Send self-addressed, stamped envelope for further particulars and repeat your question.

L. C. D. Q—Is radium safe for treating sicknesses?

A—Depends upon the type and nature of the trouble. Your doctor will advise whether or not this form of treatment would be advisable. Radium has been used with great success in many instances, but must be given by a physician understanding the patient's need.

Editorial Comment.

NATIONAL SOLIDARITY.

Speaking in Chicago this week Speaker of the House Longworth indulged the hope that this nation may "never divide its geographical, racial or religious lines."

Said he: "Once we divide on other than principles of government, we are no longer a sound democracy." He adjured his hearers to remain true to the two-party system of government.

Effort continuously is being made to effect divisions in this country along each of the lines indicated by the distinguished speaker of the house. The present situation in Ohio in connection with the Marshall Law controversy, the situations in Illinois and Indiana and Alabama suggest melancholy evidence of the fact that divisions, sinister and destructive, are being fomented by interests not loyally wedded to the principles upon which has been founded the superstructure of republican free government.

There are influences daily at work to discredit our American system of political procedure, to disrupt the formulas of our social organization, to sow the seeds of dissension and hatred among differing religious sects, to stir revolt among peoples whose skins are dark. The public platforms of the country are crowded with apostles of political, social and religious reform; tons of "literature" pour from propagandist presses and are carried by the United States mail service into millions of homes, teaching thinly-veiled seditions.

Speaker Longworth is eternally right. In solidarity alone lies the hope of the country. We dare not divide along any of the lines he indicates and hope to continue to live and function as a free republic.—Cincinnati Enquirer, October 15.

THE PLIGHT OF INDIANAPOLIS.

Apart from the general political situation in Indiana and the need of a thoroughgoing cleaning up, the case of Mayor Duvall of Indianapolis presents several much-discussed points of interest.

Duvall has been convicted of violation of the state corrupt practices act and has been sentenced to a term in jail and to pay a $1,000 fine. In addition he has been deprived for four years of the right to hold public office. He can appeal his case, of course, and theoretically there is the possibility of a reversal of his sentence. But every consideration of propriety and decency demands that he resign the office of mayor. Though the good-government elements of Indianapolis have demanded that he resign, he still defies them. In addition he has appointed his wife city comptroller in order that legally she may step into the mayoral office should he be forced to go to jail.

The public prosecutor believes that Duvall in the mayor's chair has no legal status. The latter's lawyers take the opposite view. Complications are certain and it seems impossible for the city to escape grave injury in view of Duvall's defiant attitude.

Manifestly, the laws of Indiana—or any other state—are defective if they fail to cover so serious a situation. No person convicted of crime should be able to exercise official power in contempt of the public. Conviction of crime and sentence to jail reverse the presumption of innocence, and, pending the result of appeals and delays incident to appeals, a convicted official should be relegated to private life and also should be deprived of the authority to name his successor in office.

Common sense and elementary morality dictate such explicit provisions of law.—Chicago News.

Poems That Live.

JUST AS OF OLD.

Lad, will you draw the lightning down
And pluck the morning star from the sky
To light a fire on your hearthstone
That a wilful girl may sit thereby?

Maid, will you harness the eagle's wings
And bit the jaws of the restless foam
And change the cry of the gypsy wind
For the click of a latch when your man comes home?

Swift and sure go the lovely feet
And the single eye sees cold and true,
And the road that has room and to spare for one
May be sorely narrow for two—

Yet still they light their fire at the stars,
And still they bridle the chafing sea
For the sake of a dream that has always been. . . .
That will always be.

The Way of the World.

BY GROVE PATTERSON.

Charlie White, Mexico City, Indiana, sold the furniture that had been given his family by charitable organizations. He took the money and bought an automobile. For this he is arrested and sentenced. Poor Charlie. He is not unlike many of the rest of his silly, struggling, erring, well-meaning, poor-doing fellows. Few of us sell the furniture and go to jail, but most of us, in one way or another, try to get what we want and pay a high price for it.

So many heroes—almost casual heroes, one might say—are little in the public eye. No one sings songs about them. No one nails up tablets. John Klein, "strong man" in a circus sideshow, is dead. He was getting a child out of the way of a rattlesnake. Doing so, he was bitten and soon died. So much—a line—for John Klein. He gave his life to save the life of another. Complete love—and it never occurred to John Klein to do otherwise.

In Europe one hears the quiet remark that Germany will not be likely to go to war with Poland before 1932. That is five years—only a moment in history. It shows that the mind of man has not yet risen above the level of war. How little so-called great diplomats are when they can think only in one way. When diplomats of powerful nations plan war it simply means they are too stupid and too brutal in their thinking to devise a sane and intelligent method of reaching harmony.

Our thinking must continue to be on a low level. If we must accept our own stupidity and think in terms of war, General Summerall, chief of staff of the United States army, has the right idea when he says the only way to conduct a war is to draft everything. He says: "Unless the country as a whole accepts the fundamental proposition that the entire United States will prosecute a war with the same spirit of self-sacrifice as the soldiers and sailors the accountability for failure can not be laid to the armed forces."

If we must have war, why make a lot of boys and young men do all the suffering and the dying for us?

A boy, just home in Brooklyn from a coast-to-coast hike, says he rode in 400 different vehicles. Drivers all along the way gave him a lift. He was pretty lucky. Probably his youth helped him. There are plenty of more sensible ways of showing kindness than to pick up strangers on the road. Better show your generosity elsewhere. Tramps are in no hurry. Few road hikers are on important missions.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Oct. 18—New York is reputed to have the most extravagant men and women in the world. Profligacy reaches highest peak chiefly among the newly-rich. Exclusive modiste shops have women patrons who buy silk stockings to be worn once and thrown aside.

A gentleman who cleaned up in General Motors in the market frequently orders a smart dinner at several restaurants and permits guests to select the one at which they choose to dine when they arrive. Other dinners are paid for, but not eaten.

A theatrical manager who once managed a strong man has six imported cars he never drives. Many florists have standing orders to supply flowers every day in the year at homes whose occupants are only in town several months in the year. The custom of having a chauffeur in reserve is common.

He is on the regular payroll, but sits at the wheel on few occasions when a regular chauffer is unable to work. Season boxes at the opera are purchased at astounding figures and frequently not occupied by purchasers more than once or twice a year. They want the publicity.

Many ladies buy so many frocks that soon can only be worn once or twice and some not at all. Millinery is bought in a like manner. In reducing the allowance of a twenty-year-old son, who married against his wishes, to $5,000 a year, a millionaire recently admitted the usual allowance was $25,000 annually.

At the sell-out shows nightly a block of seats will often be unoccupied as result of the host or hostess ordering them through an agency and then deciding to take the guests elsewhere. And there is one instance of the entire first five rows being purchased at a musical revue, but the guests became so beautifully blotto they could not attend.

This waste, of course, is confined almost entirely to the "come easy, go easy" natives who make it quickly. Very few of the riches, however, can stand the pace for long and the end is summed up in a fleeting few lines in a way of the bankruptcy courts.

Broadway has illuminating examples of the inevitable fate of the wastrel. There are several doormen, waiters and such once tagged as "good fellows when they had it" and souls, as they usually want to remain, even though obscurely, in the glare that once beckoned. Formerly opulent, they are now gleaners along the way that is white.

* * *

One of the picturesque Broadway spenders of about ten years ago was a young man who made his fortune as a junk dealer. When the war come along he trebled his wealth and plunged deeper into dissipation. He finished up in a wheel chair—a wreck physically and financially—selling lead pencils and around his neck was a placard: "From junk to junk."

And in the memoirs of one of those wild Honolulu kids who flash intermittently across the Dazzling dale was this line: "I began on imported caviar at Rector's and wound up on home-made hash at Beefsteak Joe's."

A soundproof apartment-house for bachelors has a line in its advertising matter that offers the ultimate in latitude. It reads: "Our only restriction is to be as quiet as possible on nights passing through hallways." And this is likely a mere consideration for the night watchmen.

* * *

There used to be a foolish rule in hotels that one could not permit mixed guests in a single room—but with an adjoining parlor the restriction was removed. Smart and exclusive hotels select guests carefully and if they have a single room it is their privilege to receive whom they please under natural assumption that all patrons are ladies and gentlemen. That is as it should be. The idea of not permitting a mother, for instance, to visit her collegiate son in his hotel room—and this has happened—is rank impertinence.

Hotels can often make more silly rules than professional lawmakers.—Copyright, 1927.

Views of Those in Public Eye.

ADMIRAL W. H. G. BULLARD.

William Hannum Grubb Bullard was born at Media, Pennsylvania, December 6, 1866. He was graduated from the United States Naval academy in 1886, and rose rapidly through the grades until his appointment as rear admiral, July 1, 1918. He received the surrender of the Austro-Hungarian fleet at the close of the World war. Bullard was made chairman of the federal radio commission in 1927.

Admiral Bullard believes the time is coming when trains will be controlled by radio. He says:

"Now here comes a new industry that I think will be coming. Somebody will make the experiment of trying to control and operate their trains by radio; and in these days it is a perfectly simple and practical proposition will. very little capital expenditure involved.

"Such a scheme, if put into effect for a train, would be a brand new proposition, and I should like to see it done. I am not throwing any brick at it, either. I am only cautioning you that if everybody does it, you would probably not be as friendly as you are now, because you will all want different wave lengths, and we will be up against it just the same; but we will try to treat you all alike.

"In case this train dispatching proposition grew to any proportions, stations and railroads would have to divide time. That is, if a railroad system in the East were given a certain definite allocation of wave lengths to conduct its experiments at the beginning, and afterward there should be demonstrations, possibly another railroad system in the central part of the state, or at the extreme western end in order to conserve these wave lengths, would have to divide time with them, and with the use of short, low power, it is not conceivable that they would interfere with one another.

"It is my province in life to try to point out all the obstacles that have to be overcome before people go into development. There are not many hurdles to be jumped on this proposition of train dispatching."

Dinner Stories.

A young minister, noted for his jollity, was dining at a farmhouse one Sunday, when he received a plate heaped with roast chicken and remarked facetiously:

"Well, here's where a chicken enters the ministry."

"Hope it does better there than it did at the lay work," rejoined the bright boy of the family.

A high official of one of the denominations objected to the feature of their new pension plan which proposed retirement on one-half the average salary received when in active service. When the applause died down, one of those humbler brothers of discerning mind drew himself up to the full extent of his elongated frame, and with the rural drawl common among men who live much alone said, "And why should the bishop wait till he retires?"

FACES ATTACKS

Trouble Looms Before Germany's Coalition Cabinet Today

Berlin, Oct. 18—Germany's coalition cabinet faced a series of bitter parliamentary attacks when the reichstag convened in special session today.

One of the first legislative measures to be taken up will be the national school bill, providing for the restoration of religious teaching in the public schools. This bill has the support of the government but is being opposed by the Socialists and Democrats.

Another measure which threatens trouble is a bill increasing the salaries of public officials.

The Bavarian People's Party is threatening to withdraw its support from the coalition government unless changes are made in the system of levying taxes.

C., D. & M. INTERURBAN OPERATION PRAISED

Company Given Practically 100 Per Cent Rating by Utility Representatives

That the C., D. & M. Electric Co. operates one of Ohio's most efficient interurban properties was indicated today when it was announced at Columbus that the company was given practically a 100 per cent rating by three state utilities commission representatives who conducted the annual inspection of the property last week.

The inspectors, according to the state commission's report, made no recommendations for repairs or alternations at any point along the C., D. & M. line.

Representatives of the commission making the inspection were W. F. Packard, F. W. Thompson and O. F. McJunkins. The state conducts an inspection of all railway lines annually.

The inspectors, it was stated, made an especially thorough examination of the trestle over which the C., D. & M. track is laid near Glenmary Park, north of Columbus, and found it to be in perfect condition.

Their official report designated the trestle as the "best wooden bridge in the state of Ohio."

RECEIVER ACTION IS DISMISSED IN COURT

Suit Rejected When Defendant Claims $500 Exemption in Lieu of Homestead

The receivership action against the grocery store conducted by Joseph Miller on Silver-st which was filed in municipal court several days ago, by John H. Bender, was dismissed and Frank Campbell, appointed as receiver, released from his appointment, by Judge Martin in municipal court yesterday afternoon when Miller claimed the $500 exemption allowed by the law in lieu of a homestead.

A receiver was asked for by Bender to satisfy a judgment of $249.35 given him by the court against Miller some time ago. By reason of the fact, however, that the stock being carried by Miller together with his other property is only involved at $180.00, the judgment cannot be satisfied.

WHEELS OF JUSTICE MOVE SWIFTLY HERE

Two Non-Support Cases Disposed of in Few Minutes in Court

The wheels of justice in municipal court moved swiftly this morning when two non-support cases were disposed of within a few minutes time.

Clarence Bodman arrested last week on a non-support charge brought by his former wife, Louise Grounds was released on his arrangement to pay $8 on Oct. 25 and $8 on Nov. 10 and $6 on each pay-day thereafter, for the support of his minor child. It was charged in the affidavit that he had not contributed toward the support of the child since the first of the year.

Freeland Minchell, who, according to L. W. Niles, superintendent of the Marion County Children's Home, has failed to contribute toward the support of his six minor children who are at the home, since the first of last March, was released when he arranged to pay $15 a week toward their support. Minchell was arrested last week on an affidavit filed by the superintendent of the home.

SAYS CANDIDATES AVOID REAL ISSUES

Butler, Columbia Head, Demands They Put Themselves on Record

New York, Oct. 18—Republican party circles were stirred again today by President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University, who has come forward with a demand that presidential candidates put themselves on record on the "real issues" for 1928—such as prohibition, international co-operation for world peace and farm relief.

"We are approaching a national election and already there is abundant evidence that individuals, groups and interests are maneuvering for position," said Dr. Butler in an address before the Institute of Arts and Sciences.

"There would appear to be an almost concerted effort to creep up to the presidential office under the cover of glittering generalities and personal friendships.

"What of the real issues—who is discussing them?"

Dr. Butler called for a renaissance of reflective thinking in American life, specially in public affairs. He demanded a new, vigorous and constructive political leadership.

Parents Held Responsible For Morale Collapse Among Youth By Club Speaker

Cameron Beck, Personnel Director of New York Stock Exchange, Delivers Forceful Address Before Local Rotarians at Weekly Luncheon

Parents who attempt to shift the responsibility of the care of their children to others, and not the children themselves, are responsible for the apparent breaking down of the morale of modern youth, declared Cameron Beck, personnel director of the New York Stock Exchange, in a plea for a closer relationship between the man and the boy, at the luncheon of the Rotary Club at the Hotel Harding yesterday.

"The children of today are what adult America has made them," the speaker said. Not alone in the relation of the parent to his child, but in the relation of the adult in general, particularly of the employer, toward the modern youth."

Proper Interest Needed

He points as proof of his statement, to the assertion made by the warden of a boys' industrial home in California, who declared that 75 per cent. of the boys could have been saved for society if only some one could have taken the proper interest, at the proper time.

As personnel director of the stock exchange, Mr. Beck interviewed many of the 9,000 persons who applied at the stock exchange last year, seeking work. In nearly every case, the speaker said, the two first questions asked, were "How much does it pay?" and "What are the hours?" This attitude of the modern youth toward work, it was pointed out by Mr. Beck, is the result of a wrong conception being given the boys by the lack of a proper interest on the part of the adult.

Responsibilities Emphasized

The speaker emphasized in his talk, four outstanding responsibilities, which he said he felt he owed as personal director: "First, I like to think that my first responsibility is to my employer, the man who gives me my job and the man who pays me my salary. I have been up and down the country a lot and have sat in audiences, where they have discussed the sharing of the bosses' profits, but I have yet to sit in a meeting where they discussed the sharing of the bosses' losses. I think the time has come when some capable person should go up and down this country saying a few words in the behalf of the honest-to-God employer."

His second responsibility, the speaker said, was to the individual employee on the payroll of the exchange. "I like to think that each employe on my payroll, whether in the engine room or in the secretary's office, is an individual, who has hopes, who has ideals, and who has aspirations."

Debt to Community

The third responsibility, Mr Beck pointed out, was a civic responsibility. "I like to feel because we are employed we have a definite responsibility to the community that sends us our help, to see to it that the people, who work for us go back at night, better citizens than they were when they came to work in the morning."

Lastly, the speaker said, he left a responsibility to those to come to the exchange looking for work. "Let's be careful folks, that the people who think enough of our industry to offer their services at our door, at least receive courteous treatment. Let's be sure that the people who offer their services are received courteously by us."

Made 92 Addresses

The personnel director because of his broad knowledge of work among boys and young men, was loaned to the Rotary Club at Long Beach, Cal., by the stock exchange, where during the months of January and February of this year, he visited 12 cities, made 92 addresses, spoke to 81,000 adults and to 75,000 high school students in 48 high schools.

Many interesting stories of his experience in carrying on his work, were told yesterday.

R. A. Garvin, principal at Vernon Heights Junior high school, W. E. Orcutt, principal of the Central Junior high school and K. H. Marshall, principal of the Harding high school and ministers of a number of the local churches, were guests of the club at the luncheon.

Speaks at School

Mr. Beck also addressed a well-attended meeting of parents and teachers last night at Central Junior High School auditorium on the subject, "The Cost of Leadership." In the afternoon he was heard in an interesting address on the subject, "Building Bigger Tomorrow," at Harding High School while lower classmen assembled for an address by M. L. Buckley, former mayor here.

Mr. Beck will also be one of the principal speakers at the annual mid-year meeting of the Ohio State Teachers Association at Columbus in December.

NOW REPORT ILEANA ATTEMPTED SUICIDE

Result of Queen Marie's Balking Love Affair with Officer

Berlin, Oct. 18—Gossip at Bucharest continues to center about the Princess Ileana, youngest daughter of Queen Marie and the late King Ferdinand of Roumania, and her supposed love affair with Naval Commander Paius, a 35-year-old married man.

Following reports that the 18-year-old princess had eloped with Naval Commander Paius, which was officially denied, another sensational report (which was also formally denied) came from Bucharest today that the princess tried to commit suicide in Sinai Palace because her love affair with the dashing naval officer had been balked by her mother.

According to the latest rumors in Bucharest, which were received here in private dispatches to avoid the Roumanian censorship, Ileana had been held virtually a prisoner in the palace.

Queen Marie is said to have discovered the love affair between her young daughter and the naval officer last summer. Commander Paius, who was then naval aide to Prince Nicholas, was immediately ordered to Constanza to assume command of a Roumanian ship.

CONTRACT SUIT IS BEING HEARD

Appeals Court in Session Here To Consider Action of Shovel Company

Suit of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. against the C., D. & M. Electric Co., involving a dispute over terms of a contract under which the C., D. & M. furnishes electric power for the plaintiff's manufacturing plant is being heard here today before the Third Ohio district court of appeals.

The suit was decided in favor of the C., D. & M. following hearing before Judge Seofield in the court of common pleas on Sept. 27 and appeal was immediately filed by the Steam Shovel company.

The hearing today held in the common pleas court room is before all three members of the appellate tribunal, Presiding Judge Phil M. Crow and associate Judges Kent W. Hughes and Charles L. Justice.

Point in Dispute

The point in dispute between the two companies relates to deductions allowed under the contract for occasional brief suspension of electrical service to the steam shovel plant because of lightning, storm or other unavoidable sources of interference.

The Steam Shovel company claims the right to deductions for interrupted service for in excess of the amounts taxed by the C., D. & M.

The controversy was taken into court after the C. D. & M. submitted its bill for the month of August and received a check reported to be several thousand dollars less than the amount of the statement. The C. D. & M. then served notice that the service to the factory would be shut off unless terms of the contract were fulfilled in accordance with the interpretation of the schedule of payments.

It was pointed out that the C., D. & M. version of the contract was accepted without question by the old Marion Steam Shovel Co., which sold out last spring to eastern capitalists.

Following receipt of the ultimatum from the C., D. & M., the Marion Steam Shovel Co. filed suit, asking that its interpretation of the contract be upheld.

Favors C., D. & M.

In deciding in favor of the C. D. & M., Judge Seofield of the court of common pleas ordered payments made in accordance with interpretation of the contract prevailing since Aug. 1, 1923, the date that it went into effect.

Practically all of the morning session of the court of appeals was taken up with discussion of the contract questions, the only witness taking the stand being George V. Mulligan, treasurer of the Marion Steam Shovel Co.

When court recessed at noon, Presiding Judge Crow stated that as the duty of the court appeared to rest entirely on interpretation of the contract, it might be that calling of witnesses would be unnecessary. Whether testimony of witnesses would be taken was to be decided when court reconvened at 1 o'clock.

Fred E. Guthery and J. M. Strollitz appeared as attorneys for the Marion Steam Shovel Co. and the C., D. & M. was represented by W. P. Moloney.

STUDENTS PROTEST

Military Institute Youths Strike Because of Hazing Edict

Lexington, Va., Oct. 18—As a protest against orders abolishing hazing, 300 students of Virginia Military Institute went on strike today. They refused to answer the morning bugle call and said they would not attend classes.

The row came to a head last night at a meeting of the student body. It was called by Jack West, president. Students criticised the methods instituted by Gen. William E. Cocke, superintendent, to abolish hazing of lower classmen. They said he had resorted to wholesale dismissal.

A first year student had complained to Cocke that he was beaten up by upper classmen.

MRS. HELEN M. HOCH SUES FOR DIVORCE

Brings Second Action in Chicago After Failing To Obtain Decree Here

After having failed to obtain a decree in the Marion County common pleas court, Mrs. Helen M. Hoch, wife of Paul Hoch of this city, has taken her case to the circuit court in Chicago, according to a news report received from there today.

The case was dismissed in the local court after a hearing in which pleas for a decree made by both husband and wife were rejected. Petition asking for a divorce was filed by Hoch and this was followed by a cross petition from his wife.

In her suit brought today in the Chicago circuit court, Mrs. Hoch charges that her husband deserted her on Sept. 10, 1923 after having failed to provide for her support and forcing her to earn her own living for a long time.

Mr. and Mrs. Hoch were married in July 1923 at Manistee, Mich., and have one child, who is being cared for by Hoch's mother at her home in this city, according to the petition.

Mrs. Hoch is now employed in Chicago, the petition stated. Her suit was filed through Everett Jennings, Chicago attorney.

COMMERCE MEMBERS TO VOTE ON CHANGE

Amendment Would Permit Directors To Serve More Than Three Years

Proposed amendment to by-laws of the Marion Chamber of Commerce to permit members of the board of directors to serve more than three successive years is to be voted upon at a special meeting of the members to be held next Monday night. Notice of the meeting, which is called for 7:30 o'clock, has been mailed to all members.

The amendment was formally approved by the directors at their last meeting.

Under present provisions of the by-laws, members of the board may not succeed themselves after serving three years until after a year has elapsed following their last term in office.

Experience has shown that where directors have served diligently and efficiently the organization would profit greatly by retaining them in office indefinitely, leaders in Chamber of Commerce activities state. For that reason it is urged that the three-year limitation be removed.

TWO DIVORCE ACTIONS FILED

Mildred A. Roberts and Laura E. Rank Bring Suits Against Mates

Two suits for divorce were brought in the court of common pleas, yesterday, wives being plaintiffs in both actions.

Mildred A. Roberts asks for a decree in her suit against Earl A. Roberts, in which she charges that her husband made life unpleasant for her because of his "uncontrollable temper." She alleges that he struck her on several different occasions, the last alleged assault occurring Sept. 19. She also accuses Roberts of infidelity.

The petition, filed through the law firm, Mouser, Young & Mouser, asks for divorce, temporary and permanent alimony and custody of the two minor children, aged two and a half years and eight months.

Mr. and Mrs. Roberts were married in Marion, Mich. 27, 1921, the petition states. Roberts, his wife says, is a former employe of the Erie Railroad Co.

Rank Suit

Laura E. Rank is plaintiff in a suit brought against Guy U. Rank, in which she charges gross neglect and extreme cruelty. Mrs. Rank says that her husband has displayed no affection for her for four years and that he deserted her on Sept. 1, 1926. She, in that time, she states she has been forced to provide for her own support.

They were married in Galion, March 08, 1909, and have one son, Donald, 17 years of age. Rank, the petition states, is a railway employe. The suit was brought through L. E. Myers, attorney for the plaintiff.

Two Suits Heard

Two divorce suits came up for hearing in the court of common pleas Monday, the court's weekly "divorce day."

The suit of Marie Bunker against James M. Bunker was dismissed by Judge Seofield when it was shown that the plaintiff had not been a resident of Marion County a year prior to filing of her suit, as required by law. Mrs. Bunker was a minor at the time of filing of suit and the action was brought by William Cook, designated as her father and next friend.

Elizabeth M. Fisher was granted a divorce from Harry A. Fisher on grounds of desertion.

WHEN BACK HURTS FLUSH OUT KIDNEYS

Drink Lots of Good Water A Day, Also Take Salts Occasionally

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which helps to remove the body's urinous waste and stimulate them to their normal activity.

The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of good water—you can't drink too much; also get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate clogged kidneys also to neutralize the acids in the system so they are no longer a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which everyone should take now and then to help keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this; also keep up the water drinking and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—Adv.

When Food Disagrees

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better Than Soda

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentation in the bowels and gently urges this souring waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

Try a 25¢ Bottle

Insist upon "Phillips." Twenty-five cent and fifty cent bottles; any drug store. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of The Charles H. Phillips Chemical Company and its predecessor Charles H. Phillips since 1875.

HALL'S CATARRH MEDICINE

When to Suspect Acid Scalp

It isn't dope that dulls the hair. Nor frequent washing or curling. If your hair lacks all life and lustre, it may be due to a condition you can correct in twenty-four hours. Acid scalp.

Neutralize the acid secretion of the scalp, and your hair will have the lovely sheen that makes any hair so attractive. A few drops of Danderine will do this; and as its name implies, Danderine is a scientific dandruff dissolvent! Five minutes after Danderine is applied every particle of dandruff has been dissolved!

Acid scalp should be suspected if your hair is at all stiff or stringy, or won't hold a wave. Another sign—not so easily detected in one's self—is an acrid odor to the hair when it is warm, or after exercise. And for thirty-five cents at any drugstore, you can get a bottle of Danderine that will keep your hair soft and sweet and "on its good behavior" for weeks!—Adv.

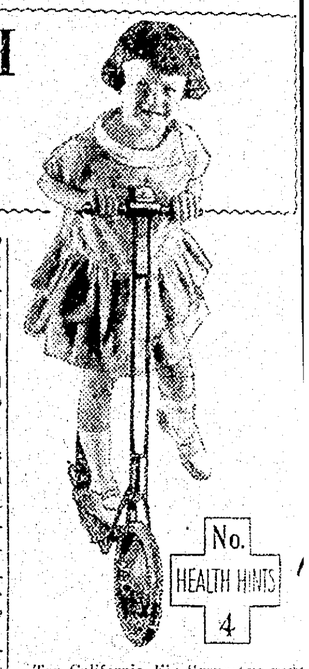
HEALTH HINTS For Parents



The wise mother gives little heed to "diets" for her growing girl or boy, and worries not at all about their bowels. A little fig syrup gives all the help, and has none of the harm that's found in habit-forming laxatives.

Have you a girl or boy whose food doesn't seem to nourish as it should? Let them eat the same things, and just treat them to a daily spoonful of this rich, fruity syrup; watch them gain weight, see how their cheeks fill out and how appetite and assimilation improve! And a few drops will do remarkable things for an ailing infant. California Fig Syrup is a purely vegetable product, so parents need have no hesitancy in giving it to infants.

California Fig Syrup is not expensive; all dealers charge but sixty cents for a generous bottle. Just make certain that it is the California product; say "California" in asking for it.

Try California Fig Syrup two weeks on any child, and let his altered appearance and actions tell the full story! —Adv.

Now Go on with the Story

CHAPTER XXX

FOR just a half-minute Sally was too stunned to move or to think. Then her brain cleared in a flash and began to work quickly and surely, as it always did.

She phoned for a taxicab, scribbled a few lines to let Mr. Peevey know where she had gone, picked up her hat and purse and went down stairs to wait for her cab.

Five minutes after her mother's message she was on her way home, gazing out of the cab windows at the familiar streets with eyes that saw nothing. The ride was a nightmare while it lasted.

All her life seemed suddenly to have narrowed down to one single terror—the fear that Millie was dead or dying.

"It's my fault," she kept telling herself. "I should have had the doctor last night whether she wanted him or not . . . I should have known that that sleep she was in wasn't a natural sleep. . . . It's all my fault."

She prayed with stiff lips. She felt that there was nothing on earth she wouldn't do for Millie if only God would spare her now. . . . She would give her up to John Nye and never think of John Nye again. . . . What did anything or anybody matter now that Millie was at death's door?

For Sally never doubted that Millie was there, and she was cold and shaking with fear as she went up the stairs to the flat.

Half way up she heard the door above her open, and Mrs. Jerome's heavy footsteps on the landing.

"That you, Sally?" And then she was sobbing on Sally's shoulders. "Millie—Millie's got to go to the hospital! She's got to be—operated on—" Her words ended in a muffled shriek.

Crying like a child and clinging to Sally with her large, soft hands, she followed her into the flat.

Ted Sloan's red headed mother stood in the center of the living room floor, holding Mrs. Jerome's coat and her hat and her high-laced shoes.

"I've been trying to get her into her clothes for the last half hour," she appealed to Sally. "And I can't do it. You hold her and I'll try to get her arms into this coat."

Between them they got Mrs. Jerome dressed and into a chair, and then Sally flew out to the bedroom where Millie was. She lay on the bed with her eyes closed and her little drooping mouth half open. There was no "Chinese black" on her eyebrows and lashes and her unrouged face had a gray, drawn look. She was no beauty now.

Sally took up one of the hot little hands in her own hands, and laid her cheek down against Millie's colorless cheek.

"Dear, I just won't let anything happen to you!" she whispered, tears pricking their way along her eyelids and a lump rising in her throat.

To her astonishment Millie answered her. She had thought she was unconscious, but the blue eyes opened and she droned out a question in a slow, drowsy voice:

"Does an appendicitis operation cost a lot?"

"Now, don't you worry about that," answered Sally, fiercely. "We'll take care of that." Then the lump in her throat choked her again and made her stop talking.

Outside in the street there came the clang of an ambulance bell.

"If you need any money, ask John Nye for it," Millie's voice ran on monotonously. "He'll lend you anything—for me."

Mrs. Sloan came bustling into the room. "The ambulance is here," she said, all importance. "Here, Sally, wrap that blanket around her when the men pick her up."

But Millie shook her head. "My pink bathrobe," she gasped, wincing as the white-uniformed doctor slipped his arm under her. Her vanity never deserted her, even in her hour of danger and agony.

The last glimpse Sally had of her showed her pulling her soft yellow hair into little tendrils over her forehead, which was too high.

• • •

The table in the waiting room at the hospital was covered with magazines.

But neither Mrs. Jerome nor Sally picked them up to look at them.

They sat there, staring at the pale-green painted walls, at the canary in its cake by the window, at the photograph of the nurses' class of 1917, at each other's solemn, unhappy faces.

"Did you telephone Beau and Mabel?" Sally whispered. The deadly quiet of the room and the hall outside the room subdued her.

Mrs. Jerome made a disgusted face. "Why should I call them?" she wanted to know. "They don't care anything about anyone but themselves—and racing around in that ramshackle car that's painted up like the fire department. I wish I had that hundred dollars back from them that I promised to poor Millie."

She had given them the hundred dollars of her own free will, but now that Millie was sick she could's forgive them for taking it.

"I'll try to get Beau at the bank," said Sally, starting up from her chair. "He ought to be here." But Mrs. Jerome pushed her down again with a silk-gloved hand.

"I did try to get him when I phoned your Aunt Emily, but he wasn't there," she confessed. "I suppose he's helping that little china doll of his move into the flat they've taken. He's forgotten that he ever had a family—" And with that she burst into tears once more. Beau was the apple of his mother's eye and she never was going to forgive him for marrying Mabel Wilmot. And Sally knew that it would have been the same, no matter what girl Beau had married.

"Why, Mother, he was at the house last night to show us his car," she reminded her mother, gently. "Don't you remember? He and Mabel had steak sandwhiches out in the kitchen."

But Mrs. Jerome refused to be comforted.

"Somebody'd better telegraph your papa," she said suddenly, with a sniff. "After all, Millie's his child and he ought to be made to pay for this operation—and if Millie's going to die he'd better be here anyway. "I'll wire him myself when I get home."

A nurse came into the room. "Miss Jerome's out of the operating room and she's still unconscious," she said, looking grave and pleasant at the same time, as nurses manage to look. "Dr. Ambleside is sure she's going to get along all right, but he'd rather no one saw her this afternoon. So if you'd like to go—" She held open the door that led into the white-walled hallway.

"We'll telephone you if there's any change" she added in that same half-cheerful way, and went rustling down the hall with her stiff white skirts rustling like autumn leaves in the wind and her rubber heels making no sound on the cork-covered floor.

All the way home Mrs. Jerome scolded because she had not been allowed to see her own daughter, and because Dr. Ambleside himself had not come down to the waiting room to tell them that Millie had come through the operation safely.

It was 5 o'clock when they got to Trellis-st. and at the corner Sally stopped and kissed her mother. "I'm going back down town for an hour or so," she said. "Mr. Peevey wasn't at the office when I left, but I wrote a note and promised to go back some time today and do his letters for him."

Mrs. Jerome gazed at her with wet, reproachful eyes. "How can you think of working at a time like this?" she sobbed. "Sally, really, sometimes I think you haven't got a heart in your body."

Sally raised her black eyebrows. "Somebody's got to keep working in this family," she answered, with a grimness worthy of Aunt Emily. "And I thank fortune that I still have my health."

She did have it, she told herself exultantly, as she swung along in the warm, hazy afternoon. No matter how long Millie was out of work, or how seldom her father's checks came through the mail, she still could make enough to keep a roof over their heads and a loaf of bread in the pantry.

There never was a pain or an ache in the strong, young body, that moved with the light grace of perfect health and firm muscles.

• • •

The door of John Nye's office opened as Sally was stooping to unlock Mr. Peevey's, and Millie's assistant came out into the hall.

"How do you do? Working late?" she asked, in a high nasal voice, stopping beside Sally.

She was a thin blond girl—the type that Millie, glorying in her own golden coloring, called "a dirty blonde." She wore double-lensed glasses that gave her eyes a queer, screwed-up look, and several dark strands of hair showed beneath her hat. "Dumb Daisy" was Millie's nickname for her. Millie had nothing but contempt for people who should have had her pity. She seemed to think it was their own fault that they were ugly or dull or dumpy.

"How's your sister?" she asked, and Sally told her what had happened to poor Millie.

The other girl frowned in an anxious way. "Well, that's too bad. I hope she gets along all right" she said. "I don't know what Mr. Nye will do when he gets back in the morning. You see, I'm not a stenographer. I just answer the phone and keep the files."

It was on the tip of Sally's tongue to say that John Nye would probably have to telephone an agency for someone to do Millie's work for a while.

Then she stopped, as a brilliant idea came to her.

"You tell Mr. Nye that I'll work mornings for him while my sister's sick," she told the girl. "That is, if he wants me to. He can call me up if he does."

Her only thought at the time was of serving John Nye—of helping him out. Of trying to earn the salary that she was sure he would keep on paying Millie all the time she was unable to work.

Dicky Returns

ELEANOR LINCOLN'S poise was not proof against Dicky's announcement that he had frightened away the owl whose hooting had caused her to swoon with terror. I saw her eyes widen and she leaned forward in her chair, grasping the arms of it with a pressure which left her slender fingers bloodless.

"Did—did you see him?" she asked, and there was a distinct quaver in her voice.

Dicky shot a quick, keen glance at her before answering.

"Not exactly," he said, "but I heard him plenty and then some. He sure was one mad bird, but I think he finally realized that we weren't giving any free auditions here and he'd better stage his vocalization on some other lawn."

She searched his face with the great lustrous eyes which always remind me of the black velvety pansies in my garden, and then settled back in her chair, her hands dropping into her lap. That Dicky's answer had reassured her in some measure I saw, and wondered if she were credulous enough to believe that Dicky really had mistaken a man's running footsteps for an owl's swooping through branches.

For by this time I was thoroughly convinced of the correctness of my theory that the noise which had frightened Miss Lincoln had not been the hoot of an owl, but a menacing signal from the lips of one of the men who had frightened her before. That it was a wild, fantastic conjecture, I realized, but I was sure that both Dicky and Lillian shared my belief and the knowledge helped to bolster my conviction.

But more startling proof was on its way to me. I joined dutifully in the general laugh which followed Dicky's whimsical speech, but my thoughts were elsewhere, and my eyes left the group around Miss Lincoln and rested upon the door through which Dicky had just walked. Just outside it I saw a shadowy, lowering figure—Katie's. She put her finger against her lips, beckoned me, and then stole silently back along the hall to the dining room.

It was with a feeling of irritation that I felt now her, for I remembered the domestic unpleasantness I had averted before the dinner only by appeals to both Jim and Katie, and expected nothing else than an appeal from my little maid concerning her long-suffering but now rebellious husband.

When I reached the dining-room Katie was already at the kitchen door beckoning me through. And when I was safely inside the room she closed and locked the door behind her with an air befitting the august head of a diplomatic secret service. Jim was nowhere to be seen, and the kitchen showed no traces of the recent culinary activity save for orderly stacks of dishes covered with linen cloths. After much persuasion I have finally brought Katie to the sensible precendre of washing the silver and cooking utensils after a large dinner and clearing everything away, postponing the task of washing huge stacks of china and glasses until the morning after, when she is rested and when I always plan an easy day for her.

She locked the outside door and drew the curtains tighter. Then she turned to me with face and eyes aflame with excitement.

"Oh, Meesis Graham!" she exclaimed. "Got you tink? Dose Transcranium mans suicide round here tonight!"—Copyright, 1927, Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

Peter's Adventures

For the Star's Daily Story for Boys and Girls

BY FLORENCE S. VINCENT

THE LAST GUESS AND WRONG AGAIN

"WHY, why, it's a baby!" stammered Peter. The queer creature nodded.

"Of course. Do you suppose I'd carry about a fullgrown son? This little fellow is the youngest of my fifteen—he's not quite strong enough yet to hop out of my pocket and skip off with his brothers and sisters, but he will be in a day or so.

"And though he is the least of the lot, as far as size goes, he isn't far behind the rest when it comes to matching wits. In fact, some of my youngsters has been a bit cleverer.

"For shame, Bobby, to act like that! You never learned such manners from me!"

The mother had looked down and seen the saucy face her small son was making at the baby, and she smartly cuffed his ears with her paw.

Peter, however, scarcely noticed what she was doing. He was too busy thinking aloud.

"Carries her babies in her pocket," said he, over and over, looking closely at the creature before him.

"But your front paws aren't any shorter than your hind ones!" remarked Peter.

"Who said they were?" demanded the mother, shortly.

"Can you hop like this?" Peter got down on all fours and leaped about in front of the astonished creature.

"No, I can't, and, pray tell, why should I wish to? I can skip and I can run and I can swing by my tail. What you are doing looks very silly to me!"

"Then you are not a Kangaroo!" declared Peter, getting to his feet, and staring at his companion. "I give it up. I don't know who you are."

Instead of telling him, the mother seemed to grow very angry at the boy's words.

With a low growl she sprang from the log and again wrapped her tail around the branch, and so sudden was the spring she made that her little son, who had been leaning way out of the pocket, now lost his balance and tumbled to the ground.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

It was colder yet when me and Jubilee woke up this morning, and when I let him down out of the window by the rope in his teeth he looked up at me like he thought I ought to be ashamed of himself. Dogs aren't so very bright or he would know that covered with hair and everything he was better off than I was standing there in my short shirttail and nothing but goose-pimples letting a dog down after I had gave him a warm bed to sleep in all night. I bet the flees appreciated it if he didn't. I bet the way I feel all day some of 'em flees think more of me than they do of him.

A flee is a kind of a funny thing. My grandfather says they are very intelligent and that they can be trained, and that there are flee circuses that you have to look at through a magnifying glass. I think he is a liar—and me—body has to look at him through a magnifying class to see that. If the flees are intelligent like he says I am glad they are not all intelligent, or all of them would rather stay on me than on Jubilee. If a man could jump like a flee, my grandfather says he could jump three and a half times around the world. It is lucky for me that I can't jump like a flee for the first time I done it I would go two and a half times around the world and land in the Atlantic ocean, and the fish would think another airplane had dropped on them.

I forgot to clean my teeth this morning and almost got away with it, but my ma was on the job so I got drug back and made to do it.

Banty is still greenish but not green, and so is Annabella Lee, but she set down in the gun of die so it don't show on her so very much. The teacher told us that we are not going to have a holiday on Halloween, and that we had better let school property alone, and anyhow we had better stay in the house that night because that is the night that ghosts came out of their graves and go oozing around, and then she smiled so we knew she was joking and we laughed out loud, and that pleased her.

Mush's wife had a smash on the bench by her door and we got it and were practicing football with it when she hollered, and it scairt Peanuts that I had thrown it so bad that he dropped and broke it. We all had to stay after school, but Jubilee was waiting for me.

MANY people, and not all of them are old foggies either, wonder why educational institutions intended to educate the youth of the land will permit so much of the youth's time to be "wasted" on athletics. In football they see only broken bones, wrecked bodies, and failure in studies. In basketball they see pretty much the same thing.

To these people the primary purpose of athletics is to draw a big crowd to fill a greater stadium. To win games, in their estimation, is the chief object of coaches. To a certain extent these people are correct. There are coaches who think only of the final score, whether the game be won fairly or unfairly.

But with the majority of coaches there is the knowledge that they are hired for something more than merely winning athletic contests. They take their positions seriously and give much of their attention to the development of esprit de corps.

All of which gets down or up to the fact that Coaches Bohyer and Compton are going after this spirit and developing it to the fullest extent. They have succeeded very well. There is a spirit of team play on the Harding squad that makes for winning teams and the coaches are responsible for this development. It is this same team work, called cooperation later, that wins when school days are over. There are few grandstand players getting anywhere in the "crool" world and the time to get any solo aspirations cured is in youth.

COACH BOHYER was called upon to face an unpleasant task "Saturday as the team" journeyed to Ashland. Two members of the team apparently had not absorbed as much esprit de corps as others. While in the dressing room the coach informed the boys, before the entire squad, that they wouldn't be needed in the game and that they needn't appear on the field in uniform. One of the boys was the only substitute the coach had for a backfield position but that didn't alter his decision. Play the game square or don't play at all is Bohyer's motto.

ONE of Sam Williamson's famous football stories comes to mind. Sam is assistant football coach and head of the intramural department of Ohio State University, and has a string of football stories longer than the fish that got away. But this one according to the coach, is true.

An aspirant for football honors in a middle west college, as the story goes, asked his coach to be excused from practice for a couple of days to attend the funeral of an aunt. Permission was granted but shortly afterwards the coach found out as coaches will, that the funeral was a hot party in the home town.

All went well until the first game rolled around and the social light sat on the bench through the entire afternoon. At the next game it was the same and the only satisfaction the player could get was that "he was being saved."

The season slipped by with the boy still being "saved." The last game was being played and he begged to be allowed to go in.

"No, I'm saving you," was all he could get from the coach.

"What for?" he asked.

"The Junior Prom," was the only answer.

Princeton's Green Squad Better With Each Game; Old Nassau Being Watched

Bill Roper Confesses He Likes To Coach Green Squad; New Players Don't Think They Know More Than Coach, He Says

BY MALCOLM ROY

PRINCETON, N. J., Oct. 18 — "Watch Princeton" is the slogan that is sounding up and down the football gridirons these brisk October afternoons for the Tigers, although the "Big Three" is no more, are launch'd on what may prove to be one of the most successful seasons an eleven from Old Nassau has enjoyed in many a long day.

Development Planned

Admittedly green and inexperienced, the Princetonians are playing a cautious game this fall, sound on defense, conservative on offense but apparently always doing the right thing at the right time according to the approved Roper formula. There has been no effort by Roper and his two chief aides, Stan Keck an Al Wittmer to hurry the eleven along. Every stage in the development of the team has been planned carefully and there has been no attempt to load the backs up with a mass of new plays in the early season contests. They have all been reserved for the big November battles, but just the same the Orange and Black is forging steadily along, using simple and almost rudimentary formations but executing them with just as much exactness and precision as Knute Rockne demands of his "fighting Irish."

Bill Roper confesses that he is at his best when coaching comparatively green men. "They'll do as you tell them," he said the other day, "and none of them have developed the complex that makes them feel they know more than you do. That's the trouble with these veteran teams. They know it all and the coach knows nothing. Now this year's Princeton's team is a smart aggressive outfit but it is just thirsty for football knowledge and drinks up everything you give them. What we're doing is to feed it to them slowly enough as to avoid indigestion."

Two Good Ends

Roper was perhaps doubly fortunate in having left with him at the beginning of the season two such fine ends as Charlie Moeser and Newton Lawler. Without doubt this pair constitutes one of the best set of wingmen in the East and there are able substitutes in Johnny Stinson, Morrison, Benedict and Renmard. French and Barfield are a fine pair of tackles but they are being hard pressed to hold their berths against Whyte and Moore. The latter two and Barfield are all from last year's top-notch freshman eleven.

For the center trio Roper has selected a powerful lot with Chuck Howe in the center position and Caldwell and Blake at the guards. They were all substitutes on last year's eleven and are a scrappy, rangy outfit. And Roper has a second string trio in Willauer, Mann and Ebbert that is not far short of the first string men in power and ability. This constitutes a big line which charges hard, fast and low and is showing better in every game it plays.

Another Wittmer

It is in the backfield that Princeton has a veritable goldmine of high class material. Just to name a few there are Earl Baruch, Ed Wittmer, Jack Norman, Mile Miles, Phil Strubing, Jack Reguardt, Graham Jones and Horace Disston who were on the squad last season and Red Owen, Bill Scarlett, Dave Lowrey and Dick Vogt of the 1930 freshman team. Baruch has the call at quarterback. He is a good field general and his excellent kicking ability more than offsets his defects as a runner. Reguardt has second call on the job.

Ed Wittmer stands out as likely to carve a name for himself in Princeton Hall of football fame. This young brother of a famous football family has all the makings of a backfield star. He is aggressive and clever when carrying the ball, changes pace and direction like a flash, and can plunge against the hardest and toughest kind of going without checking his speed. Likewise he seems immune to hard knocks. Mike Miles is an adept receiver of forward passes and is a fair line plunger while Norman plays a better game each time he takes the field.

RED AND BLACK CASTS EYES TOWARD TITLE

BY TOM BUCHANAN

Sports Editor, The Star

WITH two N. C. O. league games tucked safely away the Harding High School football team is beginning to cast wary glances in the direction of the league championship. The only obstacles in the way of the Red and Black and the coveted goal are Bucyrus, Mansfield and Shelby.

Of these three Mansfield stands out as the most formidable foe likely to wreck the Red and Black hopes. An open date last Saturday gave Mansfield an opportunity to see the Red and Black in action at Ashland, the entire team being there accompanied by Coach Murphy. Next Saturday Mansfield plays Delaware in a non-conference game. It will be the last non-conference game of the season for the Red Red. The game should be a setup for Mansfield as the Delawareites have shown little, if anything, this season.

Open Date for Harding

Harding will take advantage of its first open date next Saturday to rest up a bit and get its second wind for the remainder of the season. On the following Saturday Bucyrus will come here to spend the afternoon on the fairground lot.

Four wins out of four starts is Harding's record so far this season. And until Johnson broke loose from the 50-yard line to run for a touchdown last Saturday, the team had not been scored upon. Fifty-eight points to six for their opponents is the tally on the Harding gridders' record book. While two of the teams were non-league teams they were by no means setups for the Red and Black. Upper Sandusky can and did play nice ball although it bowed to Shelby, Saturday, 13 to 0.

While the Red and Black has been winning by comfortable margins it hasn't outplayed any opponent greatly. Ashland swept through the line like a flood over a spillway at times and Findlay on occasions made the locals look like a turtle going backwards. But both schools lacked the punch to put over the winning markers when they were needed. And that is what counts in any contest whether it be football prize fighting or channel swimming.

But sooner or later and perhaps not sooner or later than Nov. 5 when Mansfield comes here, the Red and Black is going to meet a foe that will have the scoring punch when it is needed. And that is going to be good to look at. Right now it is about an even toss up between the two. Both are undefeated. And both have defeated Galion, Harding by the score of 13 to 0 and Mansfield 33 to 6. The Big Red rolled up the bigger score but failed to hold Galion scoreless as did Marion.

NATIONAL BOXING ASSOCIATION RULES ON K. O. QUESTION

Lauds Decision of Illinois Commission in Balking Dave Barry

Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 18—Although the members of the National Boxing Association, in session here, lauded the action of the Illinois Boxing Commission in refusing to rescind the decision of its referee in the Dempsey-Tunney fight, the Association today had adopted a new rule governing the count over knocked down boxers, which widely differs from the rule in vogue with the Illinois body.

Count Starts Sooner

Under the new rule, the timekeeper shall begin the count as soon as a boxer is floored. The referee will conduct the other boxer to the farthest neutral corner and return to the prostrate boxer, taking up at this point the count from the timekeeper. Should the boxer on his feet leave the corner, counting will cease until he is returned to his corner.

The association also ruled that if a man falls or is knocked out of the ring, he shall be given 20 seconds to return. If he fails, or is unable to return, the referee shall give him a count.

Discuss Sammy Mandell

The subject of knockdowns and knockouts took up nearly the entire time of the first day's session. The convention today was continuing, with the matter of the immediate of the lightweight champion, Sammy Mandell, and the claim of Tiger Flowers, former middleweight titleholder for a return bout with Mickey Walker yet to be taled upon.

HARPSTER WOODMEN WIN LEAGUE FLAG

Close Season with 34 to 15 Victory Over Somerville

After the smoke and dust has cleared away from the Tri-County baseball league race the Harpster Woodmen find themselves undisputed holders of the banting. The Woodmen brought home the bacon in 11 of the 18 games played this summer.

A total of 217 runs and 21 hits were garnered during the season by the title winners. Teams opposing the Woodmen circled the bases 101 times and went down in the score book for 121 hits.

As a finale to the season the Woodmen won from Somerville Sunday in an alleged baseball game to the tune of 31 to 15. Woodmen laced out 28 hits to 29 for Somerville.

The game was marked with errors and lone hits. In the fourth inning K. Moses hit the ball far over center field for a home run. Lumberson Moses and Ball composed the Woodman battery. The Somerville battery was DeWitt, Wyan, Hallaway, Sharp and Hanby.

MANDELL READY

Kane Suggests Elimination Matches for Sid Terris, Kaplan and Wallace

New York, Oct. 18—Renewed activity in the lightweight division was promised today following the declaration of Eddie Kane manager of Sammy Mandell, that he would consent to a match between the lightweight champion and Sid Terris, Kid Kaplan or Bill Wallace. Kane suggested that elimination matches be held between the three contenders.

The National Boxing Association, meeting in Ohio, is considering taking action against Mandell because of his infrequent appearances against leading contenders.

GOLDEN BEARS PICKED AS PACIFIC COAST CHAMPS

Berkeley, Cal., Oct. 18—California supporters today were tagging the Golden Bears as leading contenders for the Pacific Coast Conference football championship. The Bears still have a long way to go, however, as Southern California, Washington and Stanford are still to be subjected.

QUESTION DECISION

Hilario Martinez, Spanish Boxer, Given Decision Over Jack Britton Last Night

New York, Oct. 18—Although Hilario Martinez, was awarded the decision over Jack Britton, former welterweight champion, in their ten round bout here last night, many boxing experts today disagreed with the verdict. Britton eluded most of the Spaniard's swings. Martinez missed fifty-five punches in one round.

The Spaniard floored Britton in the first round for a count of six, but Britton claimed he was fouled.

The ages of the fighters presenter a strange contrast. Britton, who is 42, was boxing before Martinez was born.

Chicago's Prospects Dark As Team Preps for Clash With Quakers Saturday

Northwestern Drilling for Zuppke's Darkhorse Illini; Ohio State Dedicates Michigan's New Stadium; Purdue Travels to Madison, Wis.

BY GLNE HOFFMAN

CHICAGO, Oct. 18—Today that followed Chicago's victory over the highly-touted Purdue eleven had given way to gloom today as injury and misfortune continued to dog the path of Stagg's Maroons in their preparations for the game with Pennsylvania here this Saturday.

The most heartbreaking setback to Stagg's hopes was the injury of Harold Bluhm, sophomore quarterback who suffered a dislocated vertebra in his neck during yesterday's scrimmage practice. Just how bad Bluhm was hurt has not definitely been established but it is certain he will play no more football this season.

Team Badly Scarred

Van Libby, half back, and Malcolm Proudfoot, regular tackle, are also on the injured list and will not be in Saturday's lineup against Penn. Stagg's whole team was pretty badly scarred and bruised after the clash with Purdue's Boilermakers.

Northwestern, fresh from its triumph over Ohio State, is pointing for Saturday's game with Illinois. Both teams are unbeaten in the conference. The game will be played at Evanston. Hanley's crew emerged from the Buckeye melee with few injuries and should be going strong this week-end.

Little is known of Zuppke's 1927 squad. It has not yet been under conference fire. The Illini and Northwestern have not met since 1923 when the downstaters won 20 to 0. If Illinois can upset Hanley's title chasing machine, Zuppke's team will rate as one of the strongest in the Big Ten.

Illini Goes to Evanston

While the Illinois-Northwestern tilt and the Chicago-Penn intersectional clash will be the midwestern headliners this Saturday, other important games are scheduled between Michigan and Ohio State at Ann Arbor and Notre Dame and Indiana at Bloomington.

Other Western Conference games scheduled for Saturday are Minnesota-Iowa at Minneapolis and Purdue-Wisconsin at Madison.

Minnesota, with a pre-season rating as one of the most formidable teams in the conference, was disappointing in its first start against Indiana last Saturday. The Hoosiers held Joesting and his Gopher mates to a 14-14 tie.

Hutton, Purdue End, Hurt

The Purdue-Wisconsin game will be watched with interest to see what Coach Glenn Thistlethwaite, the man who built a championship machine at Northwestern last year, has been able to do with the erstwhile luckless Badgers. Purdue will be handicapped by the absence of Leon Hutton, star end, who suffered a dislocated shoulder in the game with Chicago.

Industrial Stocks Recover Bulk of Lost Ground On Big Board

CALL LOAN RATE DROPS AGAIN

Efforts of Bears To Unsettle Whole List Generally Unsuccessful

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

Railroad stocks, irregular; industrial stocks, irregular; domestic bonds, steady; foreign bonds, weak; call money 4½ per cent, grain, steady; copper steady; oil, weak; cotton, steady; rubber, firm; sugar, reactionary; pig iron steady; foreign exchange, steady.

New York, Oct. 18—After an early [illegible] price levels as the result [illegible] liquidation and professional [illegible] industrial stocks in the stock [illegible] today recovered the bulk of [illegible] lost ground. Efforts of the "bear party" to unsettle the whole list were generally unsuccessful, but aggressive speculative buying was also lacking, and the market moved in a narrow price margin under a considerably reduced volume of trading.

As usual, the business and industrial reports of the day were notable for what they promised rather than for actual accomplishments. Reports submitted to President Coolidge today emphasized the increased buying power of the agricultural districts; expansion of mail-order buying; high volume of building construction; expected increase in the volume of automobile manufacturing in the last quarter of the year; prospect of a speedy settlement of the coal strike; certainty of a sizable reduction in federal taxes; larger corn crop and high prices for cattle and hogs.

Developments in the money market were practically identical with those of yesterday. The initial call rate of 4½ per cent. gave place to a fractionally lower rate about mid-day, when funds came into the market in good volume. On the other hand, liquidation of industrial stocks over the past few days has released a considerable amount of bank funds heretofore tied up in speculative loans.

United States Steel, General Motors and other of the so-called pivotal stocks held firmly in the forenoon under heavy selling pressure. Rails were firm and specialties irregular.

RUBBER MARKET

New York, Oct. 18—Trading in the outside market for crude rubber futures was quiet with prices steady. Sellers asked 36 1-4 cents for spot and Oct. ribbed smoked sheets; 36 3-8 cents for Dec.; 36 3-4 cents for Jan.-March; 37 1-2 cents for April-June.

BETTS FAVORED

Washington, Oct. 18—A. A. Betts, a member of the Arizona Co-operative Commission, is receiving strong consideration from President Coolidge for appointment to the Interstate Commerce Commission. It was said at the White House today.

The First Match

Undoubtedly, the first match was treated with a respect approximate to its potentialities. But, as familiarity bred contempt, people grew careless with these handy little fire-sticks.

In every neighborhood there are some of the kind of folks that flip burning matches all into space, toss them into wastebaskets, and otherwise treat them as they might treat used pins.

Have your buildings and their contents adequately covered by good fire insurance. It is your final protection against the match-moron. See us about it.

HOPELESS LOVE BACK OF MURDER, SUICIDE

Winter's Proposal of Marriage Refused Because of Physical Condition

Chicago, Oct. 18—"I loved her, Oh, Mother, how I loved her."

This impassionate plea—and the drinking of moonshine liquor, today wrote the epitaph upon the graves of three persons, two pretty young stenographers and a youth, victims of murder and suicide.

Suffering from an incurable disease and maddened by the impression he could never marry the girl he loved prompted Wilfred J. Winter, 22, to kill his sweetheart, Miss Margaret Martin, 19, and in a frenzy fatally wound her companion Miss Catherine Stadler, 19, according to the story presented today to a coroner's jury.

Winter, while driving an automobile and drinking, shot and killed Miss Martin, hurled her body from the car, shot and killed Miss Stadler, throwing her body too from the machine, and then shot and killed himself. The driverless vehicle crashed into a telegraph pole.

It was from Miss Martin's father that police learned of the fruitless love Winter had for Margaret. It was from a corner bootlegger they learned of the moonshine.

Wilfred, according to his mother, who lives in Brooks, Ind., had loved Margaret for years as a school chum and later as a man who wished to marry. But because physicians had decided his tuberculosis was incurable, Margaret, police learned, refused to consider his offer of marriage.

Dividing the "sheep" from the "goats"—the good from the bad—it has to be done sooner or later, even with furniture. So we do it. We don't have any "goats" in our store. When you come in, and we hope you will, you will find only furniture in good taste from which to choose. And that, after all, is pleasanter than wasting a lot of time on furniture you'd never want to buy. At least we feel that way at Schaffner's.
